GOLDBANKS LEASES ARE SOON TO SHIP

GOOD REPORTS CONTINUE FROM NEW AND IRONING CAMP

That Goldbanks is going to be a great camp—one whose development will be due, like Goldfield's, to the wisdom of the principal claim owners in giving leases on their property—is becoming more evident with each passing day.

Ten days ago seventeen leases had been let, fourteen of them being on the New Mohawk and Goldbank claims owned by A. P. Smith, the original discoverer, since that time the number of leases has been increased to thirty and fully twenty of them are in active operation.

And in this brief time some of the leases have entered the ranks of producers. Reports from Goldbanks are that Gus Weymouth's lease No. 5 on the New Mohawk is of the bonanza order. At a depth of fourteen feet the rich streak encountered just below the surface has widened to eight inches. This ore, which is a heavy black sulphide, can be easily sorted to run $1000 per ton, the silver values predominating. One assay made in Winnemucca of ore from the high-grade streak gave returns of 4048 ounces silver and $45.60 in gold. This bonanza stuff is being sacked as the shaft is sent down and it doesn't require much figuring to determine that when the shipment is made from this lease it will spread the fame of Goldbanks in a convincing manner.

And there are other leases besides Weymouth's which are making a fine showing. Among these is the No. 5 on the Goldbank owned by W. S. Bacon and L. S. Jenkins, who were in Winnemucca yesterday and placed a large order for ore sacks. They commenced operations only a week ago and already have shipped ore. The shaft, 4 1/2 feet wide, is all in ore and a sample taken across gave returns of $59, nearly half the value being in gold. This rock can be easily sorted to run $75 per ton, which will give a margin of about $45 per ton profit when sent to the smelters. They expect to make a shipment before the end of the month.

J. W. Blair, who has two leases at Goldbanks, returned yesterday from Lovelock, where he went some days ago and purchased a whim for the shaft he is sinking. The whim is at the depot here and will be taken to the camp immediately. Yesterday Mr. Blair sent out a wagonload of lumber and supplies. In a short time he will put on eight more men and other shafts will be started on the ground. It is hardly necessary to state that he is well satisfied with the camp or he would not spend so much money there.

Mr. Blair states that he will make the first shipment of ore as he is rushing his first shaft to the 50-foot level, where drifting will be started on the ledge and the stoping of ore commenced. In sinking the shaft on the big ledge a good deal of ore is being piled on the dump. He believes that Goldbanks will be one of the biggest camps in the State and will make a record for production before the year is out.

The plat of the Anderson addition to the Goldbanks townsite was filed yesterday with County Recorder Bonfield. A. B. Anderson and J. H. Langley, the latter of Tonopah, are the owners of the addition. The gentlemen were in Winnemucca yesterday attending to business matters in connection with the townsite addition and their other property and returned to Goldbanks today.

Mr. Anderson was the second locator in the district, having located extensions of the property of A. P. Smith, the original discoverer. The great Mohawk and Goldbank ledges are traceable through two of the Anderson claims, upon which a number of leases have been let and are now being actively operated.

Mr. Langley, who is a partner of Mr. Anderson, is a pioneer mining man of Tonopah and Goldfield. He has decided to cast his fortune with Goldbanks, believing that the camp has a great future.

POOR GIRL FINDS RICH FATHER

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—With poverty always within easy reaching distance and sometimes feeling its deprivations, Laura Gates, stenographer, 18 years old, has discovered her father and been reunited to him. He is Dr. C. O. Gates, physician, banker and mine owner of Santa Cruz, California.

Sharers in the joy and new-found prosperity of the stenographer are John G. Meinel and his wife of Racine, Wisconsin. Until a week ago Miss Gates bore their name and was a daughter to them, they having adopted her when she was a year old. When Dr. Gates found his daughter he announced that he would do his best to repay Meinel and his wife for the love and affection they gave his daughter during the years they were separated.

Miss Gates, under the name of Laura Meinel, was employed as a stenographer at the office of a baby food company. From Meinel she had learned early in life that she had been adopted near Sheboygan, Wisconsin, when she was less than a year old. Her story, as she had heard it from Mrs. Meinel, was that her mother had died when she was two months old. Her father at that time was a poor young physician, who scraped together $500 which he gave to her uncle to care for the motherless child.

When the $500 was gone the uncle, himself a poor man, tried to find the baby's father, but did not succeed. His poverty then became so great that he was unable to care longer for the baby, and Mr. and Mrs. Meinel adopted her and gave her their name.

Some time later they moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and from there went to other cities, where the rapidly-growing girl was given a public school education. When she had finished the high school and had mastered stenography she found herself in Racine, Wisconsin, her foster parents' latest home.

One day, in her work, she came across the name of Dr. C. O. Gates. She wrote a letter to the California man, telling him her life story.

No answer came, and the young woman had forgotten about the incident, when there arrived in Racine a handsome man of middle age, who engaged a suite of rooms at a leading hotel and then drove in a large red automobile to the office where Miss Meinel was employed. He entered formally enough, but no sooner had he caught sight of Miss Meinel at her typewriter than he rushed to her side.

"My daughter! My baby!" he cried. "And the image of your mother!" And he wept tears of joy. They are now in this city and will soon start from Chicago on their way to Europe.

LOOK AROUND YOUR OFFICE

For ledgers, daybooks, in fact for anything that may be lacking in your office, go to the Bonanza bindery. We have samples of the style of work which is turned out, but for the matter of that one does not have to visit the bindery. There are samples of our work in nearly all the offices in the city.

Our work stands as the best recommendation of the character of the stuff that we turn out. We can do anything in our line that can be done in any of the big cities, can do it as well, and give better service in the matter of prompt delivery than any other institution of the kind in the State.

Give us a trial. We will do the rest.

PASTOR WAS DISAPPOINTED

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—What Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins expected to see after midnight in the fashionable restaurants of Chicago and what he actually did see were recounted by him to a laughing congregation which thronged Pilgrim Congregational church Sunday night.

The address was the last, so Mr. Hopkins announced, in his series of talks on "Women and Booze."

He took as the basis for his final address his experiences late Saturday night and Sunday morning, when he spent several hours at the Pompeian room of the Auditorium Annex and the College Inn, with representatives of morning newspapers.

From letters he received from correspondents, who would make Baron Munchausen look like a tyro in the gentle art of exaggeration, Mr. Hopkins had expected to view the following sights at both places mentioned: Exquisite women, gowned in lace or silk and shimmering with jewels, executing dance movements on the tables.

Girls as fair as Helen of Troy giving beholders an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the latest creation in Parisian lingerie.

Actresses displaying the last fad in mottoed garters.

Society women pledging wine, wit and wickedness out of their satin slippers.

Vaudeville stars, kicking hats off the heads of financial magnates.

Lovely women stooping to folly to the extent of tossing champagne glasses at the mirrors.

Women in $1000 gowns and $200 hats seeking graceful repose on the floor after consuming two quarts of sparkling Burgundy apiece.

But Mr. Hopkins explained to his congregation, often interrupted by laughter, that these were not the things he saw, at all.

What he actually did see, said he, were the following:

Old men sipping highballs, when they should be in bed with a brick at their feet to keep up the circulation.

Old girls—awfully old, fearfully old—trying to conceal the ravages of time by a renewal of youth with the aid of a cocktail.

Fat men with bloodshot eyes and fat necks eating Welsh rarebits.

The same fat men trying to utter gallantries to equal fat women drinking beer out of steins.

Six-dollar-a-month clerks spending their week's salary in attempting to be "sporty."

Young girls in faded gray skirts and cheap shirt waists talking fatuously to the above youths.

A lot of vulgar persons.

Mr. Hopkins characterized the Pompeian room as "one of the most dangerous places in the city," while he termed the College Inn "a dive."

He said that the 1 o'clock closing ordinance was violated at the College Inn on the occasion of his visit.
